

I see the three Republican members of the FCC are getting what they want, and what they assured the public was not their intent. That is, broadcast media (and someday press as well) owned by a few people, preferably right-wing Republicans, who can control the airways for which they pay nothing, and make certain people only hear the party line.